A Freight Brokerage or sometimes referred to as a wholesaler, is a company that manages your freight requirements. A broker will source the best prices and the transit time that the client specifies.

Generally a brokerage is able to source the services at a reduced cost compared to the person wanting the freight moved, this is due to the sheer volume of freight the brokerage will move through the given carriers network.

Brokers add value to your business, we save time for any company, sourcing multiple quotes, arranging shipping paperwork and tracking the goods to ensure they make final destination.

Wholesalers know who is the best carrier for particular regions, who is on time and committed to the deadline that has been given. Brokers build many relationships with all types of transport providers.

We can help with customs clearance queries, this can get very tricky. Freight Tranz ensures that the paperwork is correct and that you are not paying unnecessary fees or charges.

The goal is save you money, save you time, and ensure your freight gets to the end destination on time and in the specification.
